: And we come to Jessa Maclean, who has helped to create this special edition of the Peter Paul & Michelle Podcast. She's such an inspiring artist, and we are very grateful to her for her help and support in bringing this interview to you. Jessa Maclean is an internationally recognised painter, animator, photographer and filmmaker. Her animation projects have won multiple prestigious awards, including 'Best Short Animation' at the prestigious Tokyo International Animation Festival. Her paintings have been shown in galleries across Australia, and are in a collection in Paris, France. Jessa's film credits include Jurassic Park, The Paperboy and the first two Inland Empire films. Jessa's paintings incorporate a wide range of themes, from intimate interior scenes of humans, to surreal landscapes and cityscapes of strange and wonderful events. When not working, Jessa enjoys spending time with her young family, watching movies, reading and writing. You can find Jessa Maclean's paintings at New Town Gallery, New Town Auctioneers and at www.jessamaclean.com.au Jessa has spoken with Peter Paul & Michelle about her influences as an artist, the challenges of being a mum, her approach to animation, and much more. You can find out more about her work and her unique approach to life at her website: www.jessamaclean.com.au. 82157476af
